GENUINE PROHIBITION.

The Rutland Herald, in an editorial reproduced in full in another column, maintains that the small amount of intoxication observed at the Middlebury Fair is an argument for the present law, not for State-wide prohibition. Since it was a New Yorker's observation, it was strictly an argument for the Vermont law as opposed to the more liberal license law of the State of New York. The visitor found the results of Vermont's restraint of liquor selling to be good, as compared with open saloon towns across the lake. There is no doubt that he was right.

But that does not prove that there could be no improvement upon Vermont's present method. What we want is not merely a law superior to New York's, with its great cities and Tammany influence, but the best law possible for Vermont, a State of small towns and cities and relatively large rural population. The Register maintains that the best Vermont law is one that will totally wipe out every lawful place of selling liquor within the confines of the State.

Under the present law the prohibition voted by one community is to some degree nullified by the license voted by another community within easy transportation distance. It is the will of Middlebury, as recorded at the last town meeting, that no liquor be sold here, but that will is thwarted to some extent because Burlington and Rutland voted for license. The Herald claims that Rutland was temperate during its Fair, but it carried opposite its editorial page the days before the Fair a half-page advertisement headed "Prepare for Drought." The counsel unfortunately was not limited to Rutland, which voted wet—it suggested ways and means to a large number of towns which voted dry, Middlebury included.

What we want is genuine prohibition, to use the Herald's excellent phrase, i. e., prohibition which extends to the State line north, south, east, and west. We would be glad to extend it to Hampton and Whitehall, but as Vermonters we have not the power. It is beside the point to hark back to the abuses of twenty years ago. We have learned something since then about the enforcement of law and also about the urgent necessity of real temperance if we are to be an efficient and progressive people. Science has been teaching us the evil effects of alcohol all these years. Great corporations have added to the lesson by refusing employment to men addicted even to the moderate use of alcohol. Vermont is a better State and is ready for a strong moral advance. No one wants to go back to winking at disobedience of law—we want to go forward to a strong law strongly enforced by the moral enthusiasm of a determined people. Every one admits the evils of intemperance; let us not weakly say that Vermont must endure them in a few places when the sentiment of the State as a whole is strongly in favor of casting out the evil, but let us get together as a State and cast it out from our entire borders—actually cast it out and not merely vote it out. It can be done, as dry and prosperous Kansas proves.

Newspaper Man Recommends It.

R. R. Wentworth of the St. James (Mo.) News, writes: "Two months ago I took a severe cold which settled in my lungs and I had such pains in my lungs I feared pneumonia. I got a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar and it straightened me up immediately. I can recommend it to be a genuine cough and lung medicine." Many mothers write this reliable medicine cured their children of croup, Hay fever and asthma sufferers say it gives quick relief. Frost's Pharmacy, adv.

SEPTEMBER WEDDINGS.

The rooms, which were divided by a colonnade, were decorated with running pine, white asters, and cut flowers. ## PROFESSOR HARRINGTON'S NEW BOOK.

Prof. Vernon C. Harrington of Middlebury College is the author of a volume, "Browning Studies," just published by Richard G. Badger, Boston. The volume consists of lectures delivered first at Oberlin College and since repeated in the course on 19th century poetry at the regular and summer sessions of Middlebury. The volume is dedicated "To the Students who have Studied Browning with me in Oberlin and Middlebury." The preface states that the publication was suggested by the interest taken by students in the studies and that they are now printed as given in the class room with some revision. The purpose is to supply an introduction to some of Browning's best work and dissipate the "literary superstition" that Browning cannot be understood.

ALL WRONG

The Mistake Is Made by Many Middlebury Citizens.

Look for the cause of backache. To be cured you must know the cause. If it's weak kidneys you must set the kidneys working right.

A Middlebury resident tells you how. Mrs. H. A. Clark, R. F. D. No. 4, Middlebury, says: "One of my family suffered for some time from backache, dizziness and rheumatic twinges. At night, sleep was almost impossible and colds were sure to make the suffering worse. Rheumatic twinges affected the patient's arm so badly at times that it couldn't be raised above the head. The first few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Sheldon's Drug Store, brought great relief. Two boxes removed the pains in the back and the patient could sleep much better."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Clark recommends. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. adv.

DEATH OF GEN. RIPLEY.

Gen. Edward Hastings Ripley, one of the foremost Vermonters of the time, died Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the Rutland hospital, after a three weeks' illness with kidney troubles. He was 76 years old, and had been in poor health for the last year, although his last illness had been of comparatively short duration. Although Gen. Ripley had not been engaged in business for years, he had allied himself with many of the movements launched in behalf of Vermont, and his war record and other activities had placed him in the public eye, both without and within the State. His career was unusually replete with achievement. Gen. Ripley was a member of the Army and Navy club, the University club, the George Washington post of the Grand Army, the Military Service institute, and had received an A. B. degree from Union college, Schenectady, N. Y., and an A. M. degree from Norwich Military university. He took a prominent part in the Union college exercises last June. Gen. Ripley had served in the Legislature as representative from Mendon, where he maintained a large estate. His winters were spent in New York.
